

The Robb Report

Dear Deaf Missions and Robb

Family supporters. Our Christmas letter is one of Thanksgiving and Gratitude. We recognize in the economic downturn of the past months, that giving to Deaf Missions has become an increased challenge. However, the Lord continues to meet every need through you and with extra interpreting work, as well. We want you to know that your giving at this difficult time is a tremendous gift of love to us. For all of your faithful kindness, your prayers throughout the years and financial support, we are grateful, and we thank you!

Barbara – Manages to keep herself busy. She's not only a loving wife & mom, but a good teacher as well. Her homeschooling is apparently paying off as the boys received their PSSA scores (PA standardized tests). Both boys tested above average in their studies. Barbara also serves as Bible Quiz Coordinator of two teams for Calvary Temple of Philadelphia. She is grateful for help from 2-3 others on the coaching staff.

Isaac –He is as tall as mom now, and though he's getting stronger, Dad can still 'take him.' (that's for Isaac's benefit). He continues to grow in self-motivated home schooling activities. Isaac is learning videography and editing from the local public TV & radio station WHYH that offers classes free to homeschoolers. He's also doing some editing at home on the Macintosh system. In Bible Quiz, at the first meet of 2008-2009 season, Isaac and Andrews' team won 1st place and Isaac gained the individual highest score. Isaac is learning to cook and is creating some delicious meals for the family.

Drew-Andrew is on the Calvary Temple Bible Quiz team with Isaac this year. At last week's Gobblefest, NE regional Bible Quiz tournament, with 40+ teams involved, Andrew gained the 2nd highest individual score in his division. We're pleased with both of our sons' hard work in scripture memorization. Andrew is also enjoying learning video editing. He and Isaac often video tape their science experiments and then make mini science shows. He is a very good babysitter for his little sister, we are grateful for his service and care. Andrew continues to show an interest in scientific experimentation. Andrew is working on his Royal Rangers "bachelor merit." He is learning to plan, shop for, and cook meals with yummy results.

Ana Sofia - Celebrated her first birthday in September. She's still young enough to be cute in just about everything she does, and just old enough to start having a will of her own. So we're beginning to work with her heart...and enjoying every minute. She's learning to communicate with sign language and voice. While homeschooling, we call her 'our delightful distraction.'
